BRITAIN'S SOLE PEACE TERMS ARE END OF NAZIISM

Seeking the Restitution of Polish and Czech Independence

RUSSO - GERMAN PLAN

Seek Power Bloc, Cutting Off Two Powers From Continental Trade

By International News Service
War and diplomatic developments today:

London—Britain's sole peace terms were set forth as end of Nazism in its entirety and the restitution of Polish and Czech independence. Germany's U-boat campaign was reported temporarily defeated.

Moscow—Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop of Germany and Premier Molotov of Russia resumed their momentous discussion on Poland and the minor Balkan and Baltic powers. Foreign Minister Seltz, of Estonia, was reported ready to capitulate to Russian demand for port facilities in Callin.

Copenhagen—A newspaper report from Berlin outlined an alleged Russo-German plan for a power bloc from Rome to Moscow, which would cut France and Britain off from continental trade.

Paris—The day's commune announced defeat of a German thrust west of Saarbrücken. A convoy system and air and naval patrols had permitted a return to sea commerce.

(By International News Service)
Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav M. Molotov of Russia and Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop of Germany sat down again today to carve off more choice slices of Europe.

If new areas are not taken outright, they will be brought into the Russo-German fold through division of "zones of influence," where Moscow and Berlin will hold at least economic sway.

Certainly it seemed the fate of Estonia was sealed, and in the future loomed possible action against Latvia, Finland, Lithuania, and Rumania.

German technique was evident in the pressure applied by Russia on little Estonia after the escape of the Polish submarine Orzel from internment in Tallinn, and Soviet pressure was redoubled to an explosive point when a submarine of unknown nationality sank the 968-ton Soviet freighter Metallist off the Estonian coast. Five of the crew of 24 are still missing.

Moscow, all Estonian denials to the contrary, accused the Baltic State of permitting use of Estonian ports as foreign submarine bases.

Back in Moscow after a hurried trip to Tallinn, Karl Seltz, Estonian Foreign Minister, countered with a protest against alleged Soviet aerial violation of Estonia's borders.

Yet his real mission in Moscow was to try to placate the Soviets and forestall a stroke. Estonian army leaders valiantly avowed their determination

Germans Claim Victory

Berlin, Sept. 28—Another major victory for the German air force was claimed today with the announcement that a squadron of Nazi bombing planes had "successfully attacked" a British heavy cruiser, near the Isle of May, five miles off Scotland.

The German squadron, according to the announcement, again succeeded in penetrating Britain's North Sea defenses.

One of the war planes, it was said, dropped a 550-pound bomb which struck the warship directly on the forecastle.

This new German victory followed by less than 24 hours a German claim that Nazi war planes had sunk an airplane carrier and badly damaged a British battleship in the North Sea.

The British Admiralty denied these claims, stating that 20 German planes had attacked a British flotilla in the North Sea, but that no hits had been made.

Kings Theatre Guild To Present Problem Play

ANDALUSIA, Sept. 28—The King's Theatre Guild will open their current season with an early production of Clemence Dane's popular drama, "A Bill of Divorcement." This play was chosen after considering many requests for a problem play. Because of the success of "Night of January 16th", "Echo", and other plays of a serious nature in the guild's repertoire, this local thespian group is looking forward to a powerful presentation of this play which deals primarily with the justification of divorce on the grounds of insanity.

The play has enjoyed a long run on Broadway and was equally popular on the screen. At the present time rehearsals are being held in the guild show shop prior to its public presentation at the Bensalem Township High School Auditorium in October.

Those in the cast are Ethel Hartman, Lorena Cassile, Hilda Leveridge, Dorothy Satter, William Wright Douglas Gittens, Walter Zelinsky and John Ferguson, Harry Corcoran, director.

DRY WEATHER RETARDS SOWING OF GRAINS

Many of The Farmers Are Finding It Impossible To Plow

HARVESTING CORN CROP

Although weather conditions for cutting and husking corn and the filling of silos has been very favorable, farmers in Bucks and adjacent counties are looking for a rain in order that they will lose no time in doing their fall seeding. As yet the situation has not become alarming, but at the same time farmers are beginning to realize that a rain is badly needed.

A large amount of acreage of wheat, rye and some barley remains to be sown, but because of the dry weather, it is impossible to do this. In some places farmers find the ground too hard to plow.

In spite of the fact that farmers cannot proceed with this work, they are busily engaged in other lines. This includes the cutting and husking of corn, picking tomatoes in the lower part of the county and the harvesting of the apple crop.

Commenting on the dry weather conditions, County Agent William F. Greenawald, Doylestown, said this week that the late vegetable crops are beginning to suffer. They include rutabagas, broccoli, celery, carrots, beets, spinach and parsnips. While making his rounds throughout the county, Mr. Greenawald said he as yet has not found a shortage of water, although many of the beds of streams are dry. At no place has he found it necessary for the farmers to carry water for their cattle.

In addition to harvesting the corn crop, the farmers are picking apples and next week many of them will begin to dig the late potatoes.

The European corn borer, according to Mr. Greenawald, has been creating a large amount of havoc, especially in the lower end of the county, where a 60 per cent infestation has been reported. In that section the corn yield has been reduced to some extent. The infestation this year has been found as far north as Plumstead and Bedminster townships, but areas north of those districts are not as yet infested.

The task which now confronts Mr. Greenawald is to convince the farmers that they must take drastic action in an attempt to prevent the spread of the borer. Unless this is done during the fall and next spring, there is every probability that the infestation will be found in the upper part of the county next summer. For many months Mr. Greenawald has been addressing farmers' clubs and other organizations in reference to the danger of the spread of the borer and he will continue to do this until the farmers are made to realize that they will have to play a very important part in the prevention of its spread. Next month he will address the Horsham Farmers' Club, and during the coming winter it is expected he will give hundreds of farmers advice along this line.

The farmers, it has been pointed out by Mr. Greenawald, will have to do a good clean up job with the fodder and stalks. The stalks should be plowed under and the fodder either shredded or burned in the fields.

The potato yield throughout the county this year will be fair. The early varieties had a yield which was about up to par, but the yield of the later varieties will not be quite up to average.

A fair tomato yield was reported throughout the county this summer. The yield, however, was rather spotty, the yield depending upon the amount of rain fall in the various localities. The farmers, most of whom sent their tomatoes to the canneries, are making their last picking this week.

Close In On Warsaw

Budapest, Hungary, Sept. 28—German troops closed in today on Warsaw, while authorities of the smashed Polish capital formed fires and strove to care for thousands of wounded, preparatory to handing over the city tomorrow.

For the first time in nearly a week, the city was neither shelled nor bombed. The German force tightened their grip, lest some of Warsaw's die-hard defenses make another desperate attempt to annul yesterday's capitulation.

With half of the city reported laid waste by flame and shell, with at least 3,000 civilians killed, military commanders last night surrendered unconditionally.

General Von Blaskowitz was assigned by the German high command to arrange concrete terms for the surrender of the Polish garrison, which the Germans said numbered around 100,000.

Warsaw's defenders are expected to be taken as prisoners of war. Swift restoration work will begin to care for the wounded, and stamp out another possibility of epidemic.

For several days before the city capitulated, it was reported, its water supply was reported low. Broadcasts from Warsaw reported many dead lying in the streets or buried under the ruins of buildings.

Four Midshipmen Killed

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 28—Four midshipmen were killed early today when the automobile in which they were returning to the U. S. Naval Academy, at Annapolis, crashed into a truck near Braden, 35 miles north of Memphis. Two others were seriously injured.

Deny German Report

London, Sept. 28—There is no truth whatever in a German claim that a British cruiser was hit by an aerial bomb off the Isle of May, it was stated in official circles today.

"The story is probably a repetition of the false claim made yesterday in connection with the North Sea episode," a spokesman said.

HARVEST FESTIVAL OF JEWS OPENS TONIGHT

Booths, Alike For All, Symbolic of Equality of Mankind

TIME OF THANKSGIVING

"Sukkos," the Feast of Tabernacles, Jewish harvest festival, opens this evening (15th day of the seventh month in the Jewish calendar). It will recall throughout the turbulent world the democratic principles inherent in Judaism and in Jewish tradition.

In America, the custom of building booths of frame covered with leaves and twigs, outside of the home and the synagogue, will obtain as usual. These booths built alike for rich and poor, are symbolic of the equality of mankind. Humanity is one, and every human being a child of God.

Man's responsibility for his fellowmen is implicit in the festival custom. Children bring fruits and produce of the earth into the synagogue. After the services, the offerings are distributed to those in need to make the day a time of thanksgiving for all.

To those in warring countries the observance of the feast may be curtailed this year, but the message of thanksgiving for the gifts of God and the reminder of the brotherhood of man will remain.

Originally a harvest festival, Sukkos has become a celebration honoring the spiritual fruits in the field of life. Observed for eight days by Reform Jewry, it is a nine-day festival for the Orthodox and Conservative. The first and last days are holy days marked by special services while days between are semi-holy days.

In accordance with an old injunction (in Leviticus XXIII-30) to take "the fruit of the goodly tree, the branches of palm trees, the boughs of thick leaved trees and willows of the brook and rejoice before the Lord," the myrtle and the willow are still used in the service as symbols of thanksgiving for the year's harvest.

The last day of Sukkos known as Rejoicing in the Law, because the cycle of reading the Law is completed and a new one started. This will recall to the mind of every observers the eternal quality of the moral law. Within that memory is the seed of hope for the future of Judaism and the recognition of its basic democratic principles.

An unusually fine attendance marked the first meeting of the season of the Newtown Parent-Teacher Association held in the high school auditorium, at Newtown, last evening. Between 150 and 160 persons attended the meeting which was in the form of an informal reception for the teachers, 24 of whom were in attendance. The teachers, including several new ones, after having been introduced by members of the social committee, of which Mrs. Marvin Keller is the chairman, were presented with bouquets.

The meeting, which was in charge of the president, Mrs. William Morlok, opened with the singing of "America" with Clarence Rumpf, director of music in the local schools, leading.

More than 100 members of the Hartzell family held their 14th annual reunion at Perkaskie Park, Sunday afternoon.

The program included the annual reorganization, at which several North Penn residents were elected to office. Rev. Walter R. Hartzell, Hagerstown, Md., was re-elected to the presidency. Others elected were: vice-presidents, Harry S. Hartzell, Pottstown; Reuben H. Hartzell, North Wales; and Weston K. Hartzell, Souderton; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Edwin H. Cope, Souderton; recording secretary, Miss Sarah Hartzell, Easton, and treasurer, Carroll Proctor, Telford.

The policy of naming three vice-presidents, instead of one, was adopted at the business session.

The guest speaker of the day was Rev. H. S. Kidd, pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Souderton. Rev. Kidd spoke on the heritage of the family, and some of its representative members he had known. Rev. J. Vincent Watchorn, pastor of Sanctuary Methodist Church, North Wales, the scheduled speaker, was unable to be present.

Officer Who Shot Man Is Released Under Bail

Officer Roller C. Beckhart, of the Pennsylvania Motor Police, Doylestown barracks, who fatally wounded a negro prisoner during a scuffle in the officer's car, Tuesday evening, has been released under $2000 bail on his own recognizance. He was arrested on a charge of manslaughter.

The victim, Philip A. Kemp, colored, 32, of Philadelphia, had, according to his wife who identified him yesterday, been previously involved in a shooting fray. Mrs. Priscilla Kemp stated to officials investigating the case, that her late husband had served 3½ years in Holmesburg Prison after shooting a man several years ago. She claimed he had been arrested several times on various charges. Mrs. Kemp said she did not know where her husband had been living since he left the employ of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lee, Neshaing, a few weeks ago, the Kemps having been estranged.

It was Mrs. Lee who discovered Kemp under a bed in her home Tuesday evening, after he had robbed the house. Kemp made a get-away over the roof and down a pipe. It was after police were called, with two details setting out, that Beckhart apprehended the man, and ordered him into the car. Kemp is said to have taken the officer's revolver from its holster, and pressed it against the officer's side as they drove along. Halting the car later, Beckhart states he tried to wrest the gun from the man, and it went off, two shots entering Kemp's chest. He died en route to Abington Hospital.

BLAZE DESTROYS BIG BARN AT NEWTOWN

Two Mules, Horse and Pigs Perish in Fire at Richardson Farm

ORIGIN UNDETERMINED

NEWTOWN, Sept. 28—Two mules, a horse and seven pigs, and all of the season's crops, including wheat, hay, straw and potatoes, were destroyed late Tuesday evening, when flames of undetermined origin razed a large barn on the property of Samuel Richardson, North State street, to the ground.

The fire, which attracted hundreds of persons to the scene, was discovered by a boy living near the Richardson home, and immediately the Newtown Fire Company was called. Although its members fought hard to save the large frame structure, it was burned to the ground in a very short time.

In addition to the livestock and crops, a large amount of farm machinery was also destroyed. Firemen and neighbors assisted in removing the cows from the blazing structure.

Nearby buildings, including some private dwellings, were threatened by the sparks which were carried a long distance by the high wind.

Firemen were able to get their supply of water from the Newtown creek and the fire plugs.

Mr. Richardson was unable to state the amount of the loss, which is partly covered by insurance. The building and machinery were insured, but there was no insurance on the cattle and the crops.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

"The British Have Her"

Washington, Sept. 27. WHAT has happened to the Bremen? This question, asked a man of international reputation, great experience and many sources of information, brought the following interesting answer: "Why that's obvious," he said, "the British have her."

PRESSED as to why that should be obvious, he asserted it is the only logical conclusion. The process of elimination makes it unavoidable. "It certainly is clear," he said, "that she did not reach a German port. If she had, it would have been a great feat in the German cap and proudly proclaimed. She sailed on the eve of war, and with the British fleet fully aware of her situation—four days away from home—and watching every move. Held up here for two days, she was practically at the mercy of a wide-awake enemy navy. To have reached Germany under those conditions would have been a remarkable feat, which no one can believe the Germans would conceal."

"WHAT about her being in a neutral port?"

"Well," was the reply, "just think that through. I am only 5 feet 11 inches tall and about a foot and a half wide. Yet, I find it rather difficult to hide myself. This boat is nearly three city blocks long and half a block wide. In the first place, there are extremely few neutral ports into which she could get. In the second place, she draws forty feet of water and there are no neutral ports of that capacity into which she could get without news of her

FUSEE MANUFACTURER LEASES NEW BUILDING

Hunter Manufacturing Co. Takes Over Building of French-Wolf Co.

MAKING ALTERATIONS

The building formerly occupied by the French-Wolf Paint Products, Inc., has been leased to the Hunter Manufacturing Company which will take possession as soon as alterations have been completed. The building was gutted by fire recently and then vacated by the French-Wolf concern.

The building is a two-story brick structure at Radcliffe and Monroe streets, adjacent to the plant of the Superior Zinc Corporation. The Hunter company manufactures fusesees which are used by railroads for signaling purposes and also used as highway warnings by the trucking industry. It is expected that the building alterations will be completed by October 1st.

Five years ago, Rex A. Hunter, owner of the company, came to Bristol as technical advisor with the Samuel Jackson Sons Company, also engaged in the fussee business. The Jackson Company is located along State Road, south of Bristol Borough.

Two years ago, Mr. Hunter resigned from the Jackson Company and started in business for himself with sales offices at Madison avenue, New York City. The Hunter Company now occupies a two-story building near the Jackson plant and also a building along the Bath Road. With the completion of alterations the Hunter Company will vacate the Jackson building and move those activities to the building just leased. The building along Bath Road will continue to be operated.

The new move is in the way of expansion but it is not expected to take on any additional help.

They're Welcome, Anyway!

(By "The Stroller")
Some motorists have probably decided when they reached a certain spot in this end of the county that their road maps are all wrong.

We don't know what serious consequences might have occurred thus far, or if any travelers have become bewildered, but mischief-makers have placed a "Yardley, Welcome" sign at the entrance to Hulmeville, thus confusing some strangers entering via Trenton avenue.

A ZOOLOGICAL NOTE

News that the elephants and camels of the famous Hagenbeck Zoo at Hamburg are being trained to do farm work need not cause undue alarm in France and England. The German may save a little gasoline and oil, but the use of elephants and camels in the place of tractors and trucks raises a lot of special problems.

The feed bill will be terrific, as any old circus man or zoo keeper knows. Moreover, the camel is a highly unsatisfactory brute in many ways. He is more stubborn than any mule, he can be as bad-tempered as a lobo wolf, as unpredictable as a La Guardia, and he smells to High Heaven. Jefferson Davis once had an idea, which seemed bright at the time, of using camels as transports across what used to be known as the Great American Desert. A herd of camels was landed on the Texas coast, in charge of a gifted Moslem camel man, and a serious attempt was made to put Davis' scheme in operation.

It was a dismal failure, and the poor camels eventually were scattered from the Texas prairies to the California deserts, where they were no good to any one. Moreover, they scared people out of their wits. Few things, it is said, can be more upsetting to a cowpuncher or a prospector than to have a camel loom up on the horizon at a time when a camel is not expected.

The record of elephants, on the other hand, is somewhat better. The elephant is really an admirable beast. Hannibal used them to fairly good effect in crossing the Alps, although he eventually came a cropper. And in our own time Phineas Taylor Barnum, on his Connecticut farm, hitched old Jumbo to a plow, much to the delight of the neighbors. There is one fact about elephants, however, which may not have occurred to Hitler, and we pass it along for what it is worth. It is this: An elephant, in addition to having a phenomenal memory, is distinguished by his loyalty to an individual trainer or mahout. If he likes you all right, he will work for you; if he doesn't then it's no dice.

EMPTYING THE COFFEE POTS

It is 10 years since the size of our paper currency was reduced, and the Treasury estimated lately that 10, 775,173 of the old-fashioned large bills were still in hiding. Allowing for losses in fires and down drain pipes, it is figured that millions still lie away in clocks, Bibles, sugar bowls and other caches.

Curiously, the rush to lay sugar has brought forth hundreds of the old bills in the East. Times of uncertainty bring out the squirrel in a sizable part of the public, and often for no sensible reason, as in the case of hoarding sugar, of which there is a surplus. The psychologists might call it an overdevelopment of the natural instinct of self-preservation.

The interesting thing here is an apparent conflict in the reasoning of the hoarder. He has tucked his old-fashioned bills away in trunks or fruit jars until an apparent crisis comes along that makes it seem that something more reliable than paper might be a better hoard. So he lays in a load of sugar, which is no more useful to him at the moment than was his stock of black-leaf money.

Presumably there will be more of this sort of conversion as other alarms of scarcity in the midst of plenty arise.

"KNIGHT ERRANT"

by Jack McDonald

SYNOPSIS

Heather Mills' world tumbled about her when her father's thoroughbred, "Coronado," breaks his back in the Santa Anita Handicap, and Dan Mills, the veteran sportsman, succumbs the following day, ostensibly from pneumonia but really from a broken heart. Charley Bassitt, a shady gambler, has taken Coronado to the receiving barn. Bassitt had backed the winner. Therefore, gossip was rife regarding Coronado's "accidental" death. Two who had waged all on Coronado and lost were "Slim" (Andrew Branson) Maynard, whose father once owned a string of thoroughbreds, and his friend, "Snapper" Elliott, a typical tout. Slim traveled from track to track, sometimes in the money but more often not. Heather, goes back to her father's Carmel Valley farm where a colt sired by Coronado is born. As Heather looked at the ungainly little creature, she visioned great races and a reincarnated Coronado. She named the colt "Knight Errant." In the meantime, Slim and Snapper were doing well at Tanforan. They buy two platters, "Susie" and "Cold Cream," for $500. Knight Errant is now a yearling and growing into a beautiful animal. Heather is anxious to race him in the Kentucky Derby, but Artichokes, her stable-hand, informs her the horse won't be eligible until three years old. So Heather secretly plans to race him at Santa Anita in January. At Bay Meadows, Slim finally finds what he believes is a spot for his plug, Cold Cream. Snapper had a man waiting for his tip to make a killing. This was the spot, thought Snapper.

CHAPTER VIII

An hour before the race Snapper had the money he was going to win already counted. But, he told himself, he might as well make it a real clean-up. So he corralled Slim.

"Slim, I can't do anything right any more."

Slim eyed Snapper suspiciously. This was Snapper's customary satchel for a touch.

"You know, Slim, I went into Raw Meat Joe's on Third street this noon and spotted a horse in the eastern entries I been tagging for months, name Morning Mail."

"But there's a daffy guy in the bookies who is a bug on astrology. He says don't play Morning Mail, as by all the signs of the Zodiac the time is not propitious to wager on any four-legged animal with a name that starts with M."

"He says wait until Venus crosses the meridian and comes into conjunction with Jupiter and then it will be o.k. I took his hunch as I figure I can't do anything right. Morning Mail wins, paid a limit price and I'm on another horse in the race."

Snapper never ran out of hard luck stories. And the marvel of it was he seemed to think Slim never ran out of money. Slim was now so used to Snapper's method of approach to put on a "touch" that he never had to wait for him to actually clamp it on.

So Slim handed him a twenty from his dwindling bankroll. They were standing under the Bay Meadows grandstand now.

"Put another twenty with this, Slim," advised Snapper, "and we'll get it all on Cold Cream's nose."

The pair eyed Charlie Bassitt, standing close by.

"That guy's got rabbit ears," Snapper said, and he and Slim maneuvered down by the other end of the grandstand.

Slim was skeptical about the race. He studied the past performance sheet and asked Snapper, "How about this Evening Song?"

"Evening Song? Just a cheap ragtime number," assured Snapper.

Don't Waste Those Concord

By Frances Lee Barton

HAVE you Concord grapes on your vines? Don't waste them! Are Concord obtainable in the corner store? Don't let them spoil. Buy at least a couple of baskets. Concord make the most delicious jelly imaginable — also a wonderful grape butter. With plenty of these two grape delicacies your winter "bread spread" problem has been solved.

Concord Grape Jelly and Butter
To prepare fruit, stem about 5 pounds fully ripe grapes and crush thoroughly. Add 1/2 cup water, bring to a boil, cover and simmer 5 minutes. Separate juice from pulp by placing hot fruit in 2-quart sieve. For Jelly: Run enough juice through a double layer of cheesecloth held in a small sieve to obtain 4 cups of strained juice. For Butter: Rub grapes from which juice has been drained through sieve to obtain 4 1/2 cups pulp. Use the excess juice or water if necessary to fill up last 1/2 cup.

Concord Grape Jelly
4 cups (2 lbs.) juice; 7 1/2 cups (3 1/2 lbs.) sugar; 1/2 bottle fruit pectin.
Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1/2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 11 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Concord Grape Butter
4 1/2 cups (2 1/4 lbs.) pulp; 7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar; 1/2 bottle fruit pectin.
Measure sugar and grape pulp into large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in fruit pectin. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot grape butter at once. Makes about 11 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Caramel Mousse

1 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
3/4 tablespoon gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water (additional)
1/2 cup milk
1/3 cup sugar (additional)
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 pint heavy cream
Heat 1 cup sugar in heavy frying pan until melted and straw colored. Add half cup water and heat until caramel redissolves. Soften gelatin in the additional 2 tablespoons cold water, combine with caramel syrup, milk, sugar and salt and heat to boiling point, cool and place in refrigerator and freeze until firm.

Jellied Meat Loaf

2 cups cooked meat, diced or chopped
1 cup stock
1 tablespoon gelatin soaked in 1/4 cup cold water
1 tablespoon catsup
bit of bay leaf
1 clove
1/2 teaspoon celery salt salt to taste
speck pepper

Add the seasonings to the stock, bringing to the boiling point, add the gelatin, stir until dissolved, then strain. Add the meat and mold.

Cold Chicken Souffle

1/2 cup liquid chicken aspic
1/4 cup tomato puree
1/2 tablespoon vinegar
1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
1/2 cup cooked chopped chicken
Chill all the ingredients. Add the tomato puree and vinegar to the aspic. Then add the chicken and fold in the cream. Chill.

Butter Cake

1/2 cup butter
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs
2 1/2 cups flour
1 cup milk
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon flavoring
1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream the butter until light and fluffy. Add flavoring. Beat sugar in gradually. Separate eggs and add the beaten yolks. Sift baking powder with one-half cup flour. Save and add after the remainder of the flour and the milk have been beaten in alternately. Add stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in layers in a moderate oven for 25 minutes or until done.

Plain Sponge Cake

2 eggs well beaten

CAKE IS THE DESSERT THAT HITS THE SPOT

Served alone or with ices or ice cream—cake makes the perfect dessert. Children and adults are unanimous in their approval.

Chocolate Angel Cake

1 1/4 cups egg whites
1 1/4 cups fine granulated sugar
3/4 cup cake flour sifted 5 times before measuring
1/4 cup cocoa (sift with flour)
1 level teaspoon cream of tartar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon lemon
Mix and bake in the following manner. Have all ingredients at room temperature. Beat egg whites until frothy, then add water, cream of tartar and salt. Beat until stiff enough to flow very slowly when bowl is partially inverted. Sift sugar to remove lumps. Sprinkle over tops of eggs, fold in with spatula. The flour should be sifted several times then sifted over egg whites and folded in. The flavoring should be added at the same time as the water. Bake at 320 degrees for about one hour. When baked invert pan until cake is cool.

Spice Cake

1 cup brown sugar
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup sour coffee cream or 1 cup sour milk and 4 tablespoons fat
1 egg well beaten
1/2 cup sliced citron
1 cup raisins
Sift the dry ingredients together. Combine the egg and cream. Add the dry ingredients and beat well. Bake about 40 minutes.

HINTS GIVEN HOUSE KEEPERS IN WAGING WAR ON INSECTS

By Miss Edna Stephany
(Home Economics Representative)

Neither ants nor any of the other insects are regarded favorably by the homemaker who finds them exploring her well-ordered kitchen. Not because they are any blot on her reputation as a good housekeeper, but because they are annoying, destructive, and often carry disease. If she doesn't do something about them quickly, many of her unwelcome callers will soon be great-grandparents.

Since the only reason insects come into the kitchen is to find food, the thing to do is to get all food out of their way. See that garbage is disposed of soon as possible, that the lids on metal garbage cans inside the house and out are kept on, and that they fit tightly.

Some weapons and maneuvers that have been found successful in waging war on the more common household insect pests are:

ANTS—The ideal way to get rid of these persistent insects is to find the colony where the queen and young ants are, then destroy it. However, often either the colony cannot be found or it is inaccessible. Then it is necessary to resort to sprays—ant powders—poison baits.

In the meantime, until these take effect, one way to keep ants off tables, refrigerators, and other movable furniture is to set the legs of the furniture into shallow dishes with a little kerosene in them. Another is to wrap poison ant tapes around the furniture legs.

Sprays will seldom wipe out a colony, but they are useful for killing ants that come out into the open in large numbers. The ordinary kerosene-pyreneum sprays on the market are excellent for killing ants that can actually be hit with the spray.

Both ant powder and poison baits should be used carefully so they don't get into food and so that children and pets do not get hold of them. Sodium fluoride powder, which is poisonous to man as well as ants, is a cheap and easily applied control for ants—if the ants take to it. Sprinkle it about window sills, drapery boards, foundations, and other places where ants crawl, but where it will not interfere with housekeeping operations.

But if the ants keep coming on in spite of this dusting of powder, try a poison bait. No one bait can be depended on to kill all kinds of ants. And it may be necessary to try several kinds before finding one that the ants like and will take back to the colony for food. Some ants like sweets—others prefer greasy foods.

Put the bait in the places where the ants ordinarily come for food, or along the line of march from colony to food, moving it closer to the colony each day. As a safety measure, put the bait in perforated pill boxes that only the ants can get into. Or put it in a tin can poked full of holes with the lid hammered on so tightly it can't come off. Saturate a piece of blotter with the poisonous sirup—then put that in the can or the box.

There are three poison bait formulas that should be effective in killing the ants most common in kitchens. One is—dissolve four ounces of sugar in one quart of water and stir in one-half ounce of tartar emetic. Another is dissolve one-half pound of sugar in one pint of hot water and add 1/7 ounce of sodium arsenate. Bring to a slow boil and strain. And for ants that do not like sweets—try working small quantities of tartar emetic into pieces of bacon rind or grease.

HOUSEFLIES—Household Insect Enemy Number One is the fly, carrier of at least 30 different disease organisms. Probably of biggest help in keeping him away from the family's food are well-fitted screens on all doors and windows. Screen doors should open outward. Although a screen with 14 meshes to the linear inch is fine enough to keep out houseflies, one with at least 16 meshes to the inch is better, because it keeps out smaller insects as well.

Home-made fly traps are a help in controlling flies that are swarming near the house waiting to come in. For flies that buzz around the kitchen door in numbers a spray of kerosene-pyreneum mixture is effective. This spray may be used indoors, also. Close the room, atomize the spray into the air until there is a good floating mist. After half an hour, open the door, and air the room. All the flies there are either dead or stupefied. Brush up the flies on the floor and burn them.

When the flies are not so numerous a constant swatter campaign and the use of the various commercial fly poisons and vapors will be sufficient to keep them under control. In late fall, although there may be fewer flies around than there have been all summer, there should be no let-up in the war on flies. These hangers-on are the ones that hibernate over winter and come out in the spring to lay eggs for the coming generations.

Weigh Baltic Fate

Moscow, Sept. 28.—The ultimate fate of Estonia and other nations in the Baltic, together with the whole of Eastern Europe, was weighed by the statesmen of Soviet Russia and Germany in secret sessions in the Kremlin today.

Up to a late hour this afternoon, the conferees had not allowed a word to leak out concerning the real nature of their talk. Speculation still ran high as to whether and to what extent Estonia might be held responsible for the sinking of the Russian freighter Metallist, with the loss of five lives, in Estonian waters yesterday.

Some observers predicted the incident would give Soviet Russia an excuse to seize control of the Estonian coastline, by diplomatic agreement or otherwise, but others felt that the Estonian problem was merely a minor issue in the far-reaching consultation, launched by German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, upon his arrival in Moscow yesterday.

coming out. In every such port there are consular representatives who would immediately notify their governments. The neutral port idea, either in Mexico or in Russia, is simply not tenable. Nor is the theory that she has been sunk or that she is somewhere on the ocean being used as a mother ship to refuse submarines tenable. How would she be refueling herself? The only thing left is that the British have her. Their denial is not convincing.

"BUT," the questioner asked, "if the British have her why do they deny it? Wouldn't it be just as much an achievement for them to have captured her as for the Germans to have saved her?"

"It is an achievement all right," was the reply, "but, perhaps, not one they would want to proclaim if they had captured her before war was declared. The Bremen sailed on Wednesday, August 30, England did not declare war until Sunday, September 3. Fast as she is she could not have made her home port in less than four days, but she would have been fully close. If the British took her they had to take her before war was declared. That does not look well on the record, but they had to choose between doing that or letting her slip through. It isn't reasonable to doubt what they chose."

"BUT, if they did take her before war was declared, why have not the Germans denounced it as an act of piracy? And why hasn't the news come out from the British port to which she has been taken?"

"For one thing," he replied, "if the Germans made such a charge, the British could convincingly reply that that was just another German lie. For another, the Germans would hate to acknowledge that the British had outsmarted them."

"FOR another, it would give too much joy in neutral countries like our own where the sentiment is strongly anti-Hitler. If the British do not give it out, it is altogether unlikely the Germans will, particularly as they can't prove it or even be sure of it. They have different reasons for silence. The Germans prefer to let it appear that the British Navy was stupid enough to let the Bremen slip through their hands, while the British do not want to present the Germans with any ground for charging that they committed an illegal act before there was any war."

"AS to news coming out from Britain, the fact that there are sufficiently large shipping ports in England and Scotland, far removed from London, in which the Bremen could be hidden, plus the completeness of the British censorship, would make it much easier to prevent news coming out than if she were in any possible neutral port. In those she could not be hidden, but the British could hide her all right. And keep her hidden, too."

Of course, this reasoning may be all wrong. The British Admiralty says the idea that they have her is "absurd." But at least it is a plausible theory and if there is any other reasonable way of accounting for the complete disappearance of the Bremen it has not been advanced. It is now nearly five weeks since she left New York.

The new order of realism in Hollywood finds an ardent disciple in Eugene Frenke, producer of "Exile Express." Anna Sten's latest starring vehicle for Grand National, coming to the Bristol Theatre.

With so many exciting events now taking place both here and abroad, Frenke believes that escapism films which strive to idealize life, are gone forever.

HOUSEWIFE SHOULD GET ALL POSSIBLE
FROM POWER WASHER

By Miss Edna Stephany
(Home Economics Representative)
Pennsylvania homemakers are taking the blue out of washday—most of them own some kind of a power washer. Are they getting the most from their machine?

The performance of a washing machine is judged by how much washing can be done at one time and how well the machine does the washing.

The capacity of a machine is measured in terms of pounds of dry clothes the machine will wash effectively in one load. Overloading is hard on the clothes and on the machine. The correct load for a machine is specified by the manufacturer.

The amount of water used in the machine is as important as the clothes capacity. The water capacity is indicated in the instruction sheet accompanying each machine.

Efficiency of a washing machine also depends on the kind and amount of soap and powder used, the temperature of the water, the types of clothing and soil, the care in loading the machine, and in the time of operating for the given load. Research workers have found that for maximum cleaning, each machine has a maximum time for operation. For most machines this time is from 7 to 15 minutes.

Thorough rinsing and proper drying also add to the result expected from the laundering process.

BENSALEM HIGH WILL OPEN 1939 GRID SEASON ON SATURDAY

OWLS HAVE BEEN DRILLING FOR FIRST GAME OF SEASON

Upper Moreland Will Be The Opening Attraction At Cornwells Heights

INJURIES ARE HANDICAP

Line-Up Has Not As Yet, Been Definitely Decided

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Sept. 28.—The Bensalem Owls and Upper Moreland Bears will open the local scholastic football season Saturday when the two teams will clash at the field here. This will mark the second straight year that the boys from Willow Grove, under the leadership of Coach Panaccio and the boys of Coach Reimer of the Blue and Gray have had the honor of inaugurating the season. Last year's game resulted in a 7-7 tie so the both teams are out to get the decision this year.

Coach Reimer, and his assistant, Johnny Slaven, have been drilling the Bensalem boys hard since Labor Day, but injuries and the lateness of many boys in reporting have kept the team from reaching top shape for the first game.

The starting line-up has not been definitely settled as yet but will probably be chosen from the following:

Ends: Colbert, Lamon, Jones, Ashton, Reynolds.

Tackles: Lehr, Devoe, Marini.

Guards: Capt. Chas. Mudie, Silcox, Jester, Wendkos.

Centers: Strickler, Clark, Turner.

Backs: Scarborough, Whyte, Waldron, Carter, Despo, Call, Kilian, Miller, Thayer, Mossbrook.

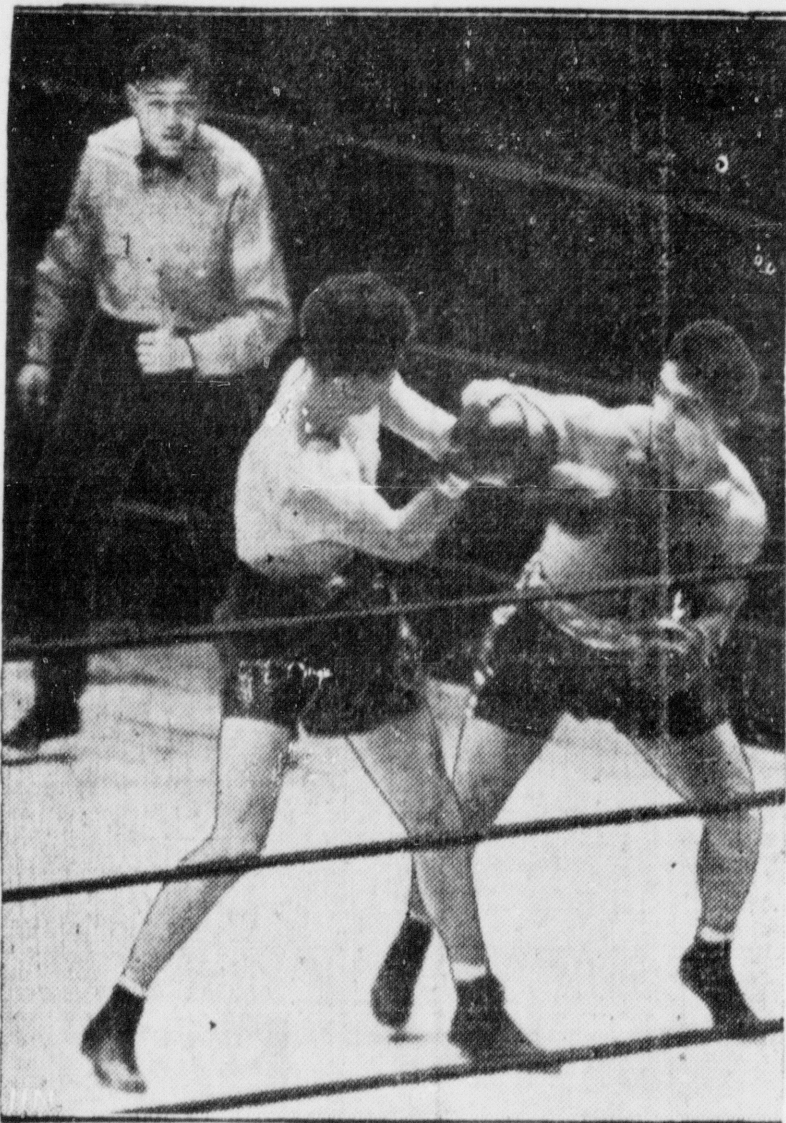

Of these boys the following won letters last year: Lehr, Silcox, Mudie, Strickler, Scarborough and Whyte.

Upper Moreland is fresh from a 6-0 victory over Souderton High last Saturday, while Bensalem has engaged in practice scrimmages with Jenkintown and St. Francis. A big crowd is expected for the opening game. Kick-off is at 2:30 p. m.

O'MAHONEY WINS IN SLOW WRESTLING MATCH

TRENTON, Sept. 28.—Danno O'Mahoney, former world's champion, proved to be anything but a champion in winning the feature wrestling match at the Arena last night from Abbe Coleman, ape-like Hebrew.

The bout, which lasted 27 minutes, was one of the slowest ever seen at the local sports emporium. O'Mahoney took the first fall after 13 minutes and 15 seconds. The undersized Jewish grappler won the second fall in one minute and 35 seconds, much to the disgust of the gallery. The third fall, which went to O'Mahoney, drew rounds of boos from the fans.

For spirited action and some fancy wrestling, the semi-windup between Abbe Yurist, popular Jewish performer, and Mark Halsey, chubby Westerner, proved to be the best match on the card. The affair went the full 30 minutes and wound up in a draw.

Allan Eustance won his initial appearance here in the second match when he pinned Ernie Powers, rough-neck Canadian, in 22 minutes and 15 seconds. The match was interesting in spots despite Powers' rough and tumble tactics.

Raoul Lopez, pudgy Spaniard, won the first match from George Kondylas in 22 minutes.

HANDICAP DIVISION SPRINGS A LEAK

By Lou Bindman
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(INS)—The handicap division seems to have sprung a leak, with some of its best form seeping out. What with Challedon downing the hitherto accredited champ, Kayak II, in the Narragansett Special, and Hash taking to task such as Nedarr, Olimpo and Isolater in the Edgemere Handicap, it would seem the three-year-olds are holding the trump cards over their older comrades. Isolater, incidentally, is the horse which pinned it on Cravat, regarded as one of the country's stoutest handicap stars, in the Saratoga Cup, only to be turned into hash himself by the three-year-old Hash.

The recent successes of Challedon and Hash have not only served to confuse the handicap division but their own age class itself. Johnstown has been dormant for some time now while Challedon has been making hay and the three-year-old title still lies between them.

Earlier this year it appeared there was nothing on the horizon that could put Johnstown away in his division over a fast track at least, then Challedon set the Belair colt on his heels in the Arlington Classic Stakes over a track that was just to Johnstown's fancy.

Johnstown's star has waned somewhat, although not sufficiently to rate him lower than Challedon, but it must be said that the latter's recent triumphs have made him at least a current equal with Johnstown. Between them, the three-year-old crown should be more definitely decided before long.

What Do You Know About Health?

By FISHER BROWN and NAT FALK

Answers: 1. As far back as 2300 B.C., a Chinese Emperor, we are told, watching the flight of birds through pieces of smoky and opaz, discovered that a convex lens magnified an object and that color diminished the glare from the sun. History concedes that for many hundreds of years the Chinese used a clear mineral called "tea stone," because it resembled the color of weak tea, for the purpose of reducing glare.

2. According to latest statistics the surviving number will be 22,720.

3. It originated as a medicine in 1807 when Dr. Philip Physick, a Philadelphia physician, prescribed carbonated water for his patients. To make the drink more palatable the chemist, called upon to fill the prescription, added various fruit juices to the preparation. This was so well liked that it soon evolved from a medicine to a liquid delicacy.

With the generally snarled situation this year, it is difficult to fathom future possibilities, even in the case of the hard-hitting Challedon. Will he ultimately eclipse the brilliant records hung up by both Johnstown and Kayak II to become not only three-year-old titleholder but king of the handicap racers as well? Some say over-raced and is due for a decline. Others say that the hardy W. L. Brann colorbearer, imbued with considerable stamina and endurance, is the type of horse that could run far, fast and frequently without ill effect.

Those who are in mind with the first theory point to the colt's performance in the Hawthorne Gold Cup, in the Gold Cup, Challedon met seven rivals considered greatly inferior to him and, although he won (at 39 cents to the dollar), nevertheless only held his ground under punishment in the stretch to hit the line by an inconsiderable margin of a half length, with the runner-up being Gridiron, a horse which didn't measure up in comparison with the Brann campaigner.

Challedon, however, conceded substantial poundage to his rivals in that engagement, Gridiron himself being in receipt of a 14 pound "spot," with 120 for the former and 106 for the latter. Yet over the long mile and a quarter, where weight is supposed to be a telling factor, Challedon, slow to begin as usual, still hung it on his rivals in the stretch.

Hash is giving his Greentree Stable plenty of satisfaction as well as cause for future optimism. This son of Questionnaire seems to get better with every outing.

came from an army of only 110,000 men.

Actual seizure of Estonia, however, did not appear to fit into the Soviet's immediate plans. But the right to place garrisons on islands controlling Tallinn, and granting of certain shipping privileges in the port, were expected to be sought by the Soviets.

As Reval, Tallinn was the chief Russian naval base in the Baltic during the World War, and Soviet naval strategists are said to hold its use necessary if Russia is again to become a sea power.

Germany, in spite of Von Ribbentrop's presence in Moscow, was said to look with some disfavor upon the prospect of Soviet expansion in the Baltic, and the Foreign Minister was reported in some quarters to be trying to swing Russia's interest back to the lost province of Bessarabia, Rumania.

Istanbul heard that Shukru Saracoglu, Turkish Foreign Minister, is in Moscow with authority to sign a Turco-Russian pact settling Black Sea and Eastern Balkan problems.

Such a pact would involve only one territorial change—the return of Dobruja, Rumania, to its former owner, Bulgaria. In return for Turkish agreement to close the Dardanelles to all foreign shipping, including British, Russia would renounce her claims on Bessarabia, this report said.

In any event, the Allies were said to be nearing reconciliation to the apparent fact that Turkey, formerly a member of the "peace front," now is lost to them.

The Moscow talks also were seen as the possible starting point for a new German "peace offensive," based on the status quo in Poland.

But You Can't "PLUG" A Can of TOMATOES!

Did you ever "plug" a watermelon? If so, what did that little upside-down pyramid mean when you cut it out of the melon's rind? It meant protection. With it, you could make sure you were getting what you were paying for—a good, ripe watermelon.

In most purchases, of course, you can't take that precaution. You can't, for example, cut into a can of tomatoes -- or a box of tapioca -- to see what's inside. But you can still protect yourself when you go to market:

You can buy familiar, advertised brands!

When you buy the things advertised in this newspaper, you are buying dependable goods. They've got to be what they claim to be in order to appear here. You'll find them as represented—and you won't have to "plug" them!
